WINTER BIRD WALK

at Worsbrough Mill
and Country Park

Winter is a brilliant time to spot all the beautiful birds that frequent our countryside and gardens.

There are some very special birds which don't live in Britain all the year round and come especially for a holiday each winter. This is because our winters are much warmer than the cold places they live, like Siberia and Scandinavia.

Why not wrap up warm and come for a winter walk to see which birds you can spot at Worsbrough Mill? Visit Wentworth Castle Gardens to continue your Winter Bird Walk. You might even spot them in your own garden or street if you keep your eyes peeled.

WINTER BIRD WALK

at Worsbrough Mill

Artist Claire West has painted some quirky winter birds and they are hidden around the reservoir walk – can you find them all?

Less incline route (650mm wide path)

- 1 Start from the playground by the Mill and follow the signs pointing to the Transpennine Trail and Wigfield Farm. Go over the two stone bridges to find a treecreeper and continue up the hill.
- 2 At the top of the hill turn left, and then follow the path ahead keeping the reservoir on your left.
- 3 Look up... can you spot a robin near a lifebuoy?
- 4 Can you find the nuthatch nesting in a large tree at Birch Corner?

- 5 Follow the path to the left and look out to see a very rare willow tit by the spring.
- 6 Keep looking up above the path to see a bullfinch.
- 7 Where the paths cross, turn left to see a kingfisher.
- 8 At the next crossroad in the path take a left and you will see the sparkling water behind the trees. Look up to see a blue tit.

Look after our birds this winter

Inviting the birds to your garden, yard or window ledge, through providing food and shelter will help them survive the winter months. Easy ways to help are:

Leave parts of your garden untidy to provide shelter for small birds.

Make sure that there is fresh, unfrozen water for drinking and washing.

Put out fatty foods like a pinecone bird feeder or fat balls.
